Ex-Judge Praises Hocker

Says Candidate Aided Committee In Evidence Against Attorney Woodward

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A former circuit judge has commended Lon Hocker, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, for his role in a disbarment case involving a St. Louis lawyer.

The former judge, Fred J. Hoffmeister, is chairman of the Bar Committee of the 8th Judicial District. In a statement issued Saturday night, Hoffmeister said Hocker "greatly aided" the committee in obtaining evidence against the lawyer, Robert Y. Woodward. The disbarment suit was filed by the bar committee.

A State Supreme Court special commissioner last week recommended that Woodward be suspended from practice for a year. Hoffmeister came to Hocker's support after the commissioner, John W. Calhoun, reported to the court that in 1949 Hocker hired a young lawyer to dress in old clothes and approach Woodward in the St. Louis municipal courts building with a false traffic ticket to see if Woodward would attempt to solicit business.

Calhoun, also a former circuit judge, found Woodward guilty on five counts of professional misconduct and not guilty on five other counts. He recommended dismissal of the count concerning Hocker on the ground of "entrapment."

What Hocker did was "for the benefit of the public," Hoffmeister said.

"I don't call that entrapment. At least, in my opinion, it is an awfully weak case of entrapment," he said.

Ham Breakfast Tickets Are Now Available Here

Tickets are now available at the Chamber of Commerce office for the ham breakfast which will be held Monday, Aug. 20, at 8:30 a.m. at the Smith-Cotton cafeteria. The breakfast, which features country cured ham, has become a tradition and is sponsored by the Missouri State Fair and the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce.

Those from this area who plan to attend the breakfast are urged to secure their tickets as soon as possible so they will not be disappointed. There have only been 600 tickets printed for the entire state of Missouri because the cafeteria accommodates only that many people and the response from over the state this year has been great.

Arrangements have been made with five country ham processors to provide 600 pounds of ham for the breakfast. The five processors are Tising's Smokehouse, High Point, Mo.; Morton Tuttle, Prairie Home, Mo.; E. M. Burger, California; Alewell Brothers Locker Plant, Concordia and L. A. Wyss, California. This will be good genuine country ham.

W. C. Cramer, chairman, is making every effort to obtain speakers of national prominence and importance, and many distinguished people from over the state are expected to be present.

Forecasts Scattered Thunderstorms Tonight

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Scattered thunderstorms are forecast for Missouri tonight, mostly in the north portion, following temperatures again in the 80s northeast to the 90s elsewhere.

The five-day forecast calls for temperatures near normal tomorrow through Saturday with the average high around 91 and the low 67, and precipitation amounting to between a half inch and an inch.

Cooler?

A welcome relief yesterday with warmer temperature today and another welcome relief tomorrow makes Missouri the "show-me" state for sure.

Partly cloudy with little change in temperature tonight and Tuesday; low tonight in upper 60s; high Tuesday in upper 80s.

Investigation Begins On Brutal Beatings

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Three separate brutal attacks on Kansas City streets which hospitalized five persons over the weekend were under investigation by police today.

"The department is making and has made every effort to apprehend this type of criminal because we never know when they will strike again and kill someone," Chief of Police Bernard C. Brannon said.

Finds Nothing In Safe Box Of O.E. Hodge

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—A safety deposit box held by former State Auditor Orville E. Hodge was opened today but nothing was found in it.

William J. Mehl of Granite City, voucher clerk under Hodge, authorized Springfield Marine Bank officials to break open the box at the request of Sangamon County prosecutors.

The box was rented under the name of Hodge; Mehl, who kept Hodge's personal books for about 20 years, and Edward A. Epping, former office manager for Hodge.

Mehl said that at Hodge's direction, he removed securities from the box June 26 and took them to Lodge's Lake Springfield home. He said he did not know the value of the securities.

The Cook County (Chicago) grand jury today began its own investigation of the million dollar state check scandal revolving around Hodge, a Republican politician.

A federal grand jury in Chicago and the Sangamon County grand jury in Springfield already have returned indictments in the case against Hodge, deposited state auditor.

State's Atty. John Gutknecht of Cook County subpoenaed Clare T. Ireland, executive vice president of the Southmost Bank and Trust Co., of Chicago where prosecutors saidphony state checks totaling $650,000 were cashed.

Ireland replaced Edward A. Hintz, who resigned as president soon after the check scandal broke.

Stassen Meets With Ike

Won't Comment On Dump Dixon Move; Says He Is Still On Republican Team

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—Harold E. Stassen met with President Eisenhower today for the first time since launching a move to drop Vice President Nixon from the GOP ticket. He came away reluctant to talk.

To reporters here, Stassen wouldn't even say whether he and Eisenhower had discussed Stassen's contention that Gov. Christian Herter of Massachusetts would be a much stronger running mate for Eisenhower than Nixon would.

And he didn't reply directly when asked whether he was still the President's aide on disarmament. To that question, he said: "I don't want you to continue to try to cover all kinds of situations."

But on his arrival back in Washington, Stassen brushed aside rumors that he might be on his way out of the President's official family.

"I've been on the 'team' for a long time and I intend to stay on the team," he told reporters who met him.

Asked by Washington newsmen if his meeting with the President was pleasant and friendly, Stassen said all his contacts with Eisenhower always have been both.

He declined to say what he and Eisenhower talked about, and said he would not comment on the progress of his Herter boom until he had some formal statement to make.

Stassen said he asked for the meeting with the President. He flew here for it this morning. It was a surprise session in that there had been no word to newsmen in advance that Stassen was coming.

It was just a week ago today that Stassen tossed a bombshell into Republican ranks by publicly proposing the nomination of Herter, rather than Nixon, to the No. 2 spot on the GOP ticket. He said a private poll indicated an Eisenhower-Herter ticket would garner 6 per cent more votes than would an Eisenhower-Nixon ticket.

The President has made no public comment on the matter. Previously Eisenhower had said he would be "delighted" to have Nixon as his running mate.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty has said so far as he is concerned Nixon still will be the President's running mate. Leonard W. Hall, GOP national chairman, has expressed the same view.

At an airport news conference after an hour at the Eisenhower farm here, Stassen was peppered with questions from newsmen wanting to know Eisenhower's views regarding Stassen's proposal for putting Herter on the ticket.

"I am not going to characterize the President's position," Stassen replied.

Asked what matters he and Eisenhower discussed, Stassen said: "I never discuss my conferences with the President."

Asked then whether he and Eisenhower talked about the Stassen plan for putting Herter on the GOP ticket, Stassen replied with a smile:

"I never discuss the subjects I discuss with the President."

A reporter then asked whether Stassen had not discussed the political situation. He replied he was not going to give newsmen any clue to the subject matter "either by inclusion or exclusion."

Holds Holstein Show Soon on Selken Farm

Holstein dairymen from 17 central Missouri counties will hold their twenty-third annual field day and black and white show in Pettis County at 1 p.m. Wednesday.

The event has been held at the fairgrounds and parks through mid-Missouri, but for the last few years, a farm setup as the location has worked fine for the event. This year's field day will be held at the Selken Farms at Smithton.

The show is jointly sponsored by the dairy extension department of the University of Missouri and the Holstein Association of America of Brattleboro, Vermont, and has a two fold purpose, that of a day of get together for the dairymen and the show of the cattle, when the first and second place animals in each class become eligible to show at the Ozark Empire Fair at Springfield at the Black and White parish division of the Missouri State Fair.

M. J. Regan of the University of Missouri and Deane Skogman of Wichita, Kan., will be in charge of the show and I. P. Stewart of Maynard, Ia., will be in charge of the discussion and will place the animals in the show.

Between 1,600 to 1,800 persons are expected to attend the picnic.

Northwest, Far West Get Fair Weather

Thunderstorms rumbled over most of the Northern Plains as a disturbance moved eastward from the northern Rocky Mountain area. Showers were widespread from Arizona eastward across the Southern Plains.

Cool air sweeping across the Great Lakes collided with warm, moisture heavy currents over the Ohio Valley and Middle Atlantic states, causing heavy thunder-showers in some sections. Greensboro, N. C., reported one of the heaviest overnight rainfalls with more than two thirds of an inch.

Fine Increase Unless NAACP Produces Tabs

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — A fine of $10,000 against the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People will increase to $100,000 at 5 p.m. today unless the organization produces its Alabama records.

The fine was levied against the Negro organization last Wednesday for contempt of court. Circuit Judge Walter B. Jones found the NAACP in contempt for failing to produce its Alabama records.

Membership lists, bank accounts property lists, correspondence and other information had been ordered turned over to the state court in an action that outlawed NAACP activities in Alabama. When the records were not surrendered, Jones set the $10,000 fine.

The judge gave the organization another five days to produce the records or have the fine boosted to $100,000. That five-day period, during which the smaller fine could be reduced or eliminated, ends at 5 p.m.

Thurgood Marshall, the NAACP's chief legal counsel, said in New York that the organization would have no statement until today.

Ask US Support On Suez

British and French Plan Is Designed To Counter Seizure Of Canal by Egypt

LONDON (AP) — American support was asked today for a plan to set up an international board, on which Russia would be represented, to control the Suez Canal and guarantee freedom of passage for the ships of all nations.

British and French sources said the plan, designed to counter Egyptian President Nasser's seizure of the canal, was placed before policy makers of the three Western powers, meeting here in a crisis atmosphere.

In effect it would recognize Egypt's nationalization of the canal, but would superimpose a guarantee of its international use.

A rising clamor in the British press demanded the use of armed force, if needed, to answer Nasser.

Hundreds of onlookers thronged around 10 Downing St. where British Prime Minister Eden met with his Cabinet and military chiefs.

The Cabinet session preceded a second conference of British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau and U. S. Undersecretary of State Robert Murphy, who examined the Suez question for five hours yesterday.

Informants close to the conference said the plan which the United States is being asked to support would give Egypt, as well as Russia, a place on the Suez control board, and that Egypt would be guaranteed a share of the revenue from the operation of the waterway.

Blair Attacks Farm Policy At Big Picnic

Lieut. Gov. James T. Blair, Jr., candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, didn't draw any punches in his talk, Sunday afternoon, to the largest political gathering held thus far this year in Missouri. Blair used as his theme an attack on the present Eisenhower Administration.

He criticized the Eisenhower-Benson farm policies and their bungling of the farm problems of the country.

"We welcome back and are happy to have our farm friends back in the family," Blair said. "We welcome back home, where it belongs, the farm vote which strayed away and made its mistake four years ago."

Blair accused President Eisenhower's Administration with failure to even life up to its own platform. He praised the Democratic representatives in Congress and for their work for the people and having the people's interests placed above party politics.

He then reviewed the Democratic Administrations under Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman and of the prosperity then for "all the people and not a select few."

The candidate came from Independence where he spoke to a large Jackson County picnic, arriving here shortly before time for the speaking and left Sedalia for Jefferson City where he had another engagement at 6 p. m.

On the platform were many of the state candidates who were introduced as well as the local county candidates. W. C. Cramer, the chairman of the city committee, acted as chairman of the meeting and introduced the following candidates:

Charles A. Lee, candidate for governor; Tom Shockley, candidate for lieutenant governor; Walter T. Berman for secretary of state; M. E. Morris for state treasurer; John M. Dalton for attorney general; W. W. "Bill" Wisdom, of Tipton, for state senator of the 33rd district; County candidates Milt Overstreet for representative; E. L. Birdsong, judge of the county court, eastern district and Charles S. Arnold, Co. Court judge for the western district; Harold Barrick for prosecuting attorney; sheriff candidates Eugene Herrick, William Fred Smith and John F. Taylor; Jerry Trotter for assessor. He called the names of Dr. Donald K. Kirby, Dr. J. M. Rodeman and Dr. C. Gordon Stauffer, candidates for coroner and Keith G. Ekstrom for surveyor.

The fish-fry was started at 9 a. m. and by 1 o'clock when serving began 2,400 servings were ready. Within a short time the "cooks" were far behind in their work but kept the kettles busy frying out the fish. A check on the amount of fish used and the servings it was estimated that more than 6,200 persons passed through the lines. The lines were long but the crowd waited patiently for a turn to pass the tables loaded with slaw, bread, potato chips and then came the fish.

Start Third Week of Trial-

McKeon Motion for Directed Verdict Of Not Guilty Denied by Court Judge

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C. (AP) — The defense today lost its bid for a directed verdict of innocent in the court-martial of Marine S. Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon.

Defense attorney Emil Zola Berman of New York City asked the court at the opening of its third week of trial for innocent verdicts for the former drill instructor accused of involuntary manslaughter in the drowning of six recruits, oppression of recruits and drinking in the presence of a recruit.

In a deliberate tone the trial judge, Navy Capt. Irving N. Klein, also of New York City, said, "The motion for a finding of not guilty is denied."

Technically, the seven-man court martial panel may overrule Klein by a three-fourths vote, but such action by a court is extremely rare.

The only charge on which Berman did not make a motion for dismissal was that of possessing an alcoholic beverage in barracks.

The ruling "as expected." Just previously, the government prosecutor, Maj. Charles B. Sevier of Jacksonville, Ill., had presented a counterargument to the defense's ringing oration demanding a directed verdict.

The oration by defense attorney Emil Zola Berman of New York City ranged from Nero to Captain Bligh.

Sevier held that when McKeon, a 31-year-old former drill instructor, led 74 members of a recruit platoon into the tide-swept waters of the Ribbon Creek marsh where six drowned, he was guilty of culpable negligence.

"He must have known he had nonswimmers in the platoon because of his statement 'Those who can't swim will drown and those who can will be eaten by sharks,'" Sevier said.

"To take nonswimmers on a dark night into a tidal creek," Sevier maintained, "is wanton negligence."

In arguing for dismissal of the oppression charge, Berman held there was no legal definition to fit this particular case.

"The conduct of Captain Bligh in the famed Mutiny on the Bounty may be a point of reference to oppression of men under command," he said.

Another definition, Berman said, may have been the conduct of Nero, which was to "to tyrannize, or to keep down by cruel and unjust use of power."

Nero was the emperor who allegedly set fire to Rome just to see it burn and as such he would have known of the probable loss of life.

Capt. Bligh led the ship Bounty into the South Seas, where his tyrannical commands prompted the crew to mutiny and take refuge on an island.

"The prime purpose 's cruelty and suffering. It is suffering which can be predicted," Berman said.

None of these definitions fits McKeon's conduct in leading his recruit platoon into the tide-swept creek, the defense attorney contended.

The prosecutions ought to show that McKeon was negligent in leading the march, had no authority to do so and was violating orders.

Berman contends that McKeon was only performing a duty to instruct recruits in a manner long accepted as custom at this Marine training center.

Berman also contends that if the recruits had followed where McKeon led they would have been safe.

If convicted McKeon faces a prison term of six years and a dishonorable discharge.

Plan Now for Small Grain; Fill in Shortage of Pasture

By BILL MURPHY

It's time to make plans for seedling small grain pastures. Small grains offer an excellent way of filling in the period of late September through early November when we usually have a shortage of pasture. It can take the place of some permanent pasture growth which can be saved for winter grazing. And it can also reduce the amount of hay needed for wintering.

In general, we have a choice of three small grains, winter barley, rye, or wheat, although winter oats can be used in extreme south Missouri.

Early seeded winter barley is an excellent winter pasture for all of Missouri south of Highway 36. It will produce more fall seed than any other fall seeded small grain on medium to good, well drained land. If well fertilized and not too severely overgrazed, it will develop a spring growth for either pasture, grain, hay, or grass silage. At the same time it can serve as a good nurse crop for grasses and legumes.

Rye is a better fall pasture crop on low fertility, poorly drained soils. It will furnish more winter pasture than barley and wheat and can be grazed harder without hurting the stand. Rye furnishes the earliest spring pasture by ten days to two weeks.

Wheat fits in well when a long grazing period is needed in the spring. However, there is a problem of hessian fly with wheat and we must consider it when we think about a planting date. In areas where the fly is a problem, wheat is just about out of the picture for fall pasture.

For best fall pasture, winter barley and rye should be seeded in late August or early September.

Fences Save Farmer Much Time, Money

By ALBERT HAGAN

With small grain harvest nearing an end, perhaps you may find a few slack days for "catching up" on extra jobs. One which often needs attention, especially on livestock farms, is fence construction and upkeep.

Fences play an important part in the management and operation of your farm. If well-arranged and well-constructed, they will help you save time and labor in farming operations and add to your income.

If you plan to build a new fence, the most important first step is to get it located in the right place. This may seem like an obvious fact but, too often, new inside fences are located without much thought about the effect on travel time in getting in and out of fields and on the efficiency of field operations.

Here are a few principles to keep in mind in planning new fencing systems for greater efficiency:

1. Plan a complete Balanced Farming system, including a detailed layout map of the whole farm and the farmstead area as you would like to have them arranged, perhaps in five or ten years.

2. In planning the system, first try to locate a service lane, which will connect all fields and pastures directly with the farmstead area. With a good cattle-guard located where the lane joins the service court, you may go directly to every field on the farm—with either equipment or livestock—and not open a gate except the one into the individual field.

3. If you have an upland farm and terracing is necessary in order to produce more high income crops, plan terrace outlets along field boundaries opposite the lane entrance to give good access into all fields.

4. Construct field boundary fences on terrace outlet berms or at the drainage divide in the terrace system, when feasible.

5. Locate contour fences either between terraces or on the top of terrace berms. A fence on the terrace berm is best when separating fields in a hog sanitation rotation.

6. For the farmstead building area, plan an open service court which allows an open travel way from the main road to all service buildings, the loading chute, and by using a cattle guard, to all fields without opening a gate.

At first thought, this may seem an impossible task but several thousand Missouri farmers have planned Balanced Farming systems to include all these features. Many have these plans fully developed and the fences built to fit the complete system.

If you must build a fence before making a long-time Balanced Farming plan, you might use a temporary fence—such as an electric fence—until plans are completed. This may save you a lot of the expense and hard labor involved in moving fences later on in order to have a system which fits modern farming operations.

A new Missouri College of Agriculture Circular No. 667 entitled "Good Fences for Your Farm" contains further suggestions for planning fencing systems as well as details of fence construction. Numerous photos and line drawings make this circular quite useful as a fencing guide. You may get a copy from your county agent who also will provide assistance in planning your long-time Balanced Farming system.

Grasshoppers Still Threat to '56 Crops

Grasshoppers are still the most important threat in Missouri's insect situation, according to Stirling Kyd, University of Missouri extension entomologist. But it looks as though hopper damage will not be as extensive as that of 1954 if conditions stay as favorable as they now are.

However, Kyd says there is still time for trouble this year should a period of hot, dry weather set in and he encourages farmers to continue with control measures where and when they are needed. Actually, the extension entomologist attributes the slight grasshopper damage to date to the tremendous increase in early season spraying this year.

Rye can be seeded a little earlier than barley or wheat. However, none of these crops should be seeded much before late August because they are too apt to be hurt by hot, dry weather.

These small grains should be fertilized according to soil test. Seed barley and rye at a rate of two bushels per acre.

Grazing can start when small grains reach about four inches in height. Then the small grains should have about that same amount of growth to go through the winter. This is especially important with barley.

Protein Mix For Hogs Helps Reduce Cost

By Estel Hudson

Several of the Farm and Home Planning members are mixing a protein supplement of tankage or meat scraps and soybean oil meal for their hogs and report that it is more economical and their hogs are doing better.

This supplement is made by mixing 25 per cent soybean oil meal; 25 per cent tankage or meat scraps (preferably meat scraps); and the other 50% either soybean meal or meat scraps depending on which is the cheapest per pound of digestible protein. This will make about a 40 per cent supplement. Normally 1½ pound of this supplement per day is sufficient for pigs weighing 50 pounds on to market age. If this mixture is self fed and the hogs are consuming over ½ pound per day then add shorts or ground oats until the consumption levels off at about ½ pound.

G. W. Meyer, who is feeding this supplement, says his hogs are doing better than previous litters and is costing less to feed. He is hand feeding 33 pounds of supplement along with ground oats and barley to 61 head of hogs.

The cost of this mixture is $4, compared to $5 for the supplement he was feeding. This is a saving of 33 cents a day on the supplement, which would amount to approximately 75 cents per hog from 50 pounds to market age.

The extension staff has a prepared list of recommended rations for brood sows, sows at farrowing time, sow and litter and for creep feeding pigs. A copy may be picked up at the county extension office.

Alfalfa Gains In Popularity By Sturdiness

Alfalfa is becoming especially popular in Missouri because of its ability to withstand dry weather and because it can be used in many ways. It can be used as a hay crop, as a mixture with grasses for grazing and silage or as one of the crops in a flexible rotation with corn and wheat.

Marshall Christy, extension soils specialist at the University of Missouri, says that average yields of three to five tons per acre of alfalfa hay can be expected on a good many farms.

Although alfalfa is a special crop in many ways, it's not so much so that seedling should be put off until next year. However, some advance preparation may mean a big difference in results.

In order to cash in on the production ability of alfalfa, you need to use adequate lime, phosphate, potash, and nitrogen. It's easier to establish and maintain an alfalfa stand on deep, well-drained, fertile soil. But good performance can be obtained on less desirable soils if you eliminate nutrient deficiencies. The soil specialists say that plowing the minerals down deeply is a good practice. A soil test is the best guide for amount of fertilizer needed.

If you plan to seed some alfalfa late this summer, Christy recommends applying the needed lime, phosphate, and potash as soon as possible.

More information on seeding alfalfa and making soil tests can be obtained from county extension agents.

First County Agent Speaks Here Aug. 14

A total of 43 Pettis County farm families who have been working on a special planning program this past year will be recognized Tuesday evening, Aug. 14. The occasion will be a dinner at the First Methodist Church in Sedalia, and J. U. Morris, former county extension agent who started the first balanced farming work in the county will be the speaker.

The evening program is a joint affair between the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce, the Missouri Bankers Association and the Extension Service. Members of the agricultural committee of the Chamber of Commerce recently went out and solicited funds from business men with a majority of farm customers to insure that the program could continue through the year. Business men who contributed to the program will receive complimentary tickets to the dinner. It is hoped that most of them will attend so that they may know more about the program.

The Missouri Bankers Association has been interested in Balanced Farming, or Farm and Home Planning as it is called in Pettis County, for many years and has designed a beautiful progress award to be presented to families who have made progress on their program. These awards will be made the 14th by C. L. Carter, cashier of the Sedalia Bank and Trust Co.

It is expected that most of the new members of the planning association will also be interested in attending, as will members of the agricultural committee of the Chamber of Commerce, other business men and old friends of Morris. The meeting is set for 7:30 as a convenience for farm people and tickets are now on sale.

Association members will be sent cards from the Extension Office on which they can indicate whether they want tickets and can pick them up that night. Other interested farm people can get their tickets at the Extension Office. Business men may get tickets at the Chamber of Commerce. As mentioned earlier, one complimentary ticket will be mailed to each businessman who assisted in underwriting the program.

Warns Against Feeding Mash To Laying Hens

Check carefully before you feed the odds and ends of starter mash to the laying flocks, warns County Agent Merle Vaughan. Sometimes these feeds may contain a medicant to control coccidiosis. Some of these coccidiosis control ingredients can ruin egg quality.

A product known as NiCarbazin is being widely used to control coccidiosis in broilers and pullets. From all reports it is doing a good job; however, County Agent Vaughan points out that it should not be fed to the laying hens in case you have some left over.

Tests in New York have shown that NiCarbazin in the amounts used to control coccidiosis fed to laying hens will cause the yolks to become "severely mottled." There will be clear-like areas in the yolk and cloudy areas resembling a creamy material like cream cheese or semi-solid butter milk. The egg size will go down and egg production may drop from 50 or 60 per cent to 15 per cent.

As soon as the hens are placed on normal feed they will start laying normal eggs again within a short time. Poultrymen are advised to check carefully to be sure that no feed containing NiCarbazin is accidentally fed to the laying flock.

It has been known for sometime that hens normally laying brown shelled eggs will start laying white shelled eggs if fed a feed containing NiCarbazin.

BEST SPEAKERS—Jerry Conaway, Pettis County Farm Bureau President presenting Marcia Rissler, Quisenberry 4-H her blue ribbon speech "Bill of Rights, Bill of Duties." Marcia was selected to represent Pettis County at the District 4-H Achievement Day in public speaking. Other blue ribbon speakers looking on, Irene Shipley, Striped College 4-H; Glenda Rhoads, Quisenberry 4-H; and Caroline Staley, Striped College 4-H. The Pettis County Farm Bureau furnished all the ribbons for the Pettis County Achievement Days.

Summary of Mid-Year Agricultural Outlook

This past week we in the extension office had the opportunity to hear one of our economists, Clarence Klinger, report on the expected agricultural outlook for the six months ahead.

A summary of that outlook is listed below. A more detailed report is on our bulletin board where interested persons may study it at their leisure.

1. GENERAL BUSINESS—Business activity has continued at a near record level the first six months of 1956. No significant change is now foreseen in the remainder of the year.

2. FARM PRICES—Prices received by farmers have increased 10-11 per cent from the low in December, 1955. Parity ratio in mid-June was 85 compared to 80 in December. It will likely remain at or slightly below this level during the next six months.

3. FARM INCOME—Farm income is expected to improve over the first half of year, but the total for 1956 will be slightly below 1955.

4. CATTLE—(a) Prices for top grades of fed cattle will be higher. (b) Lower grades to decline seasonally.

(c) Feeder cattle are expected to be slightly lower than last fall.

5. HOGS—Hog prices expected to decline seasonally but remain at least moderately higher than a year ago.

6. LAMBS—Lamb prices have passed the peak—will decline seasonally to near last year's levels.

7. DAIRY—Both production and prices to remain above a year ago.

8. EGGS—Prices for good quality eggs will be higher.

9. BROILERS—Prices are expected to decline.

10. TURKEYS—Prices are expected to be slightly below a year ago.

11. FEED—Prices will average slightly higher than a year ago.

12. WHEAT—Prices expected to rise to about $2 after a heavy run of harvest. Production about in balance with domestic consumption and exports.

13. SOYBEANS—Prices are expected to decline near loan rate ($2.15) at harvest.

14. LAND—Prices expected to remain relatively stable or perhaps slightly stronger.

(The economists definition of slightly is five per cent change so any place the term is used it means an expected five per cent up or down.)

Turning now to poultry production, it will soon be time to house this year's pullets. And that means it's time to make plans to get the permanent laying house ready for the pullets. In many cases this permanent laying house is occupied by yearling hens that have completed one year of lay and are still going strong.

Should you sell these yearling birds in order to make room for the pullets? "No," is the answer given by extension poultry specialist at the University of Missouri. They say it will pay to keep over the best producing hens for an additional three or four months of lay. Large eggs bring a four percent premium in the fall when the smaller pullet eggs come on the market.

The poultrymen suggest moving the yearling hens to temporary quarters, such as a brooder house or barn. Let them continue to produce until they go into a full body molt. That way you can cash in on the prices for large eggs this fall and can reduce the overall depreciation on your flock.

Attic Fan Most Satisfactory—Three Ways to Keep a Farm Home Cool During Summer

By ROBERT STEWART

There are three common ways to keep the farm home cool in summer. You can use regular air-conditioning units, attic exhaust fans or evaporative cooling.

Selection and purchase of room and window type air-conditioning units should be made from a qualified dealer who will guarantee the product. In general, prices are similar for units having similar features. The window air-conditioning unit or room cooler is a complete package which is mounted in a wall opening such as a window. The unit can cool, dehumidify, filter, and circulate air. In many cases, ventilating, heating, and humidifying are also available in these same units. Besides room and window types, complete central air-conditioning units can be obtained.

The attic exhaust fan has proved popular as an inexpensive means of obtaining a cooling effect in a home. While it cannot be called a substitute for complete air-conditioning it is sound in principle.

Maximum temperature during the day usually occurs between noon and 4 p.m. During this time, a considerable amount of heat is stored up in the construction material of the building. In the air in the attic is not circulated, temperatures as high as 130 degrees are common. After sunset, the outdoor temperature begins to drop, with the lowest temperature coming between midnight and 6 a.m.

The attic fan should be started after sundown to draw cool air from the outside and circulate it through the house. The indoor temperature is lowered quickly. In rooms to be cooled, it's best to open the windows most distant from the fan. It may be necessary to close or partly close other windows.

It's important to get the proper fan size. To obtain best results, a fan should be selected to give one air change of the entire area in two to four minutes. This quantity of air will be sufficient to cause a gentle breeze through the area.

In areas where the air is very hot and dry, it is possible to reduce the temperature by passing air over a wetted surface. The evaporation of the water requires heat as the air touches the moisture, the heat necessary to evaporate the water is taken from the air so that the temperature of the air is lowered but humidity is raised.

In considering these three types of possible cooling mechanisms, it is obvious that the type which uses mechanical refrigeration will cost the most but will generally be the most satisfactory. The evaporative cooler is rarely used in our part of the country because our relative humidities are usually too high for this type of cooling to be effective.

The attic fan, is entirely satisfactory. It will greatly help the inflow of cool air into the house at night time. Use of the attic fan tends to limit or reduce the need for cross ventilation in bedrooms and other rooms in the house.

Asthma Formula Prescribed Most By Doctors—Available Now Without Prescription

Stops Attacks in Minutes... Relief Lasts for Hours!

New York, N. Y. (Special)—The asthma formula prescribed more than any other by doctors for their private patients is now available to asthma sufferers without prescription.

Medical tests proved this formula stops asthma attacks in minutes and gives hours of freedom from recurrence of painful asthma spasms. This formula is so effective that it is the physicians' leading asthma prescription—so safe that now it can be sold without prescription—in tiny tablets called Primatene.

Primatene opens bronchial tubes, loosens mucous congestion, relieves taut nervous tension. All this without

The Perils Of Boating

Man is confronted by the possibility of accidental injury or death every waking moment. He has some conscious control over avoidance, but even those who are eternally safety-conscious often in one moment of absent-mindedness fall victim to accident. A 30-year-old Kansas man familiar with the operation of outboard motors forgot to put the throttle in neutral when starting the engine again, after it had died, while he was boating on the Kaw River Sunday. In full throttle the engine started with a roar and threw the man into the water. He drowned.

This man was one of those 1,200 victims who each year lose their lives in accidents involving small boats. Most of them, however, are in the 20 to 24 year age group, according to statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. This is usually because the younger boatmen expose themselves to danger with greater readiness.

Central Missourians are vulnerable to water accidents particularly at this season of the year which attracts so many to creeks as well as the major body of water in this area — The Lake of the Ozarks, forty miles south of Sedalia. There seems to be a common practice down there of going boating without life preservers. This legal requirement, let alone personal safety necessity, is violated every day. Who wants to be encumbered with a life preserver while boating and fishing on the Lake?

But a study of death claim records of Metropolitan's industrial policyholders reveals that nearly three out of every five insured persons who drowned were fishing; one-quarter of the victims were cruising, rowing or canoeing for pleasure; one-tenth were duck hunting, and an almost equal proportion were playing on rafts — these were practically all boys under 15.

Circumstances surrounding the deaths in this study make up a list of safety violations to be avoided by small boat users:

Small boats turned over when occupants stood up or shifted positions in the craft.

Overloading was responsible for a number of deaths.

Others lost their life because of dangerous practices such as speeding, sharp turning, and horseplay near dams or falls.

A number of the persons drowned could not swim; in some instances they were alone or with fellow passengers who also were non-swimmers.

Physical weakness or impairment was a contributing factor in some deaths.

Sudden squalls, severe winds, and treacherous currents added to the toll.

Motor-driven craft, very largely outboards, were listed in three-fifths of small-boat drowning cases; rowboats, in one-fifths; canoes and rafts in virtually all the others. Sailboats, despite the popularity of sailing, appeared in the records of only two death claims.

August is a prime month to invite pleasure-seekers to indulge in water sports. To be sure you enjoy them without being brought home in an ambulance, remember to practice the elementary rules of safety — one of which is never to stand up in a boat to start an outboard motor set at full throttle; and watch out for those sudden squalls and severe winds which are a common hazard on open water.

Democrats, Republicans Show Similarity

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—What Democrats and Republicans showed in the 84th Congress, just ended, was their similarity. But to hear them, from now till election day, you might think they were as far apart as an apple and an egg.

Any differences between them are more in degree than in kind. In this period of prosperity and relative peace, there was no public demand for new or radical changes. None was made.

At times differences within the parties seemed greater than those between them. For example: between Northern and Southern Democrats and between the Republican "right" and "liberal" wings.

Voters in the past two elections showed they don't recognize much difference between the parties. In 1952 Republicans, riding President Eisenhower's coattails, were given control of the 83rd Congress by a slim majority. In 1954 the Democrats won control by a slim majority.

The mixed-up nature of the two parties appeared in the 84th Congress, just as it did in the 83rd, but never more than in the 83rd when Eisenhower's own Republicans gave him more trouble than the Democrats.

And the Republicans, for 20 years protesting the New Deal and "Fair Deal" programs, have not attempted to repeal any major one of them since Eisenhower took office. Instead, they worked to expand some of them.

For example: This year Eisenhower wanted Social Security broadened. The Democrats, who originated Social Security, broadened it more than he asked.

The minimum wage law was a product of the New Deal. Eisenhower last year wanted the minimum wage raised from 75 to 90 cents an hour. The Democrats upped it to $1.

Eisenhower offered a civil rights program. The House passed it in the closing days of the 84th Congress and it died in the Senate. He should have fought harder for it and offered it earlier.

But no matter when he offered it, it was almost certainly doomed by the Southern Democrats. Democrats have tried to build a campaign issue by blaming the Republicans for the "giveaway" of natural resources. But they'll have a tough time convincing anyone the label doesn't apply to them too.

In foreign affairs the Democrats gave Eisenhower a huge measure of support. It was some of his own Republican leaders in the Senate who gave him some of his biggest headaches in the foreign field.

Both parties may claim credit for setting up the gigantic highway building program. The best they can do is split the credit. Eisenhower wanted it; so did the Democrats. They differed on how to pay for it. The Democrats' idea of financing won out.

It was on Eisenhower's plea for federal aid to education that he got one of his stiffest jolts. It was killed in the House with his own Republicans taking a major hand in the slaughter.

Forcing the people against their will without regard to local conditions is not the right way."

The former baseball commissioner said his one time association with baseball helps his campaigning. "The troubles I had were with the owners, not the players or the fans." During my administration, the players got substantial rights and colored players first joined baseball.

He sees a "possibility" that Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) would shift his votes to him in the event of such a deadlock. (Adlai Stevenson now believes he can get the nomination on the first ballot.)

Chandler said this at a recent "harmony" lunch hosted by Rep. William Natcher (D-Ky.) where Chandler, Sen. Earle D. Clements, and Ex-Governor Lawrence Wetherby laughed and chatted.

Chandler outlined his presidential campaign plans to 17 Kentuckians including the congressional delegation. Later, he said privately that discord among Kentucky Democrats had been "resolved" after the recent executive committee meeting back home named him as Kentucky's choice for the presidential candidate.

"The campaign is gaining momentum," declared Chandler confidentially. He will visit Nebraska, Iowa, and other states on a trip west to pick up more delegates.

Asked if he would choose a Southerner for a Supreme Court position if elected, he replied, "If president, I expect to pick a qualified, outstanding fellow from anywhere."

In touring non-southern sections, he said he would talk "honestly" about the Supreme Court desegregation decision. "You don't have feelings about that. You have to respect it," he declared.

"We've got to seek an end to segregation but can't do it with federal bayonets and soldiers."

"That is not a stream," said the bus driver indignantly, "That is Biscayne Bay."

"Well," said the woman after she got off the bus, "it might be a bay in Florida, but back in Missouri it would only be a stream."

HIGHLIGHTS AND SIDELIGHTS FROM YOUR STATE CAPITOL

The equalization of assessment rates within counties is the next goal of the state tax commission. The commission is currently completing its program of setting a minimum assessment rate of 30 per cent of true value in every county of the state. James M. Robertson, chairman of the commission, said that program will be completed this year.

Robertson said the commission's next move will be to make sure the assessments are equalized in the various parts of counties. He said the commission is urging county boards of equalization to do this on their own. However, Robertson also said the commission is exploring the possibility of legislation to assure equalization of assessment within the various counties.

"We'll have a number of bills on the subject ready for the next legislature," Robertson said.

The operators of a Lake Ozark excursion boat, Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Bemis, have filed a $100,000 damage suit against Jefferson City television station KRCG-TV.

Mr. and Mrs. Bemis allege that the business of their boat, "The Larry Don" was damaged by one of the television station's newscasts. The couple charged that the "Larry Don" was falsely identified in the newscast as a Lake Ozark boat which sank in 1954, drowning six passengers.

The suit alleged that as a result of the newscast many potential customers avoided the use of the "Larry Don."

The television station is owned by the Goshorn family, publishers of the Jefferson City Daily Capital News and News Tribune.

Now Is Time To Buy Ewes For Next Year

By A. J. DYER
MU Professor of Animal Husbandry

It's time now to buy breeding ewes if you want to raise early lambs next year.

Here are some things to keep in mind when buying ewes: size, age, breeding, health, and soundness.

As for size, range yearling ewes should weigh about 90 pounds at this time of year. Natives should weigh more.

Two-year-olds should weigh 125-130 pounds in field condition. Older ewes should weigh slightly more than this.

Probably the ideal age is two years. They have had their first lambs and are just coming into their most productive period. Productivity increases until four years of age and stays at that level until six years.

However, good two-year-olds are hard to find so you may have to choose between yearlings and something older. With yearlings you can be sure of age by looking at the teeth. At four years, ewes have a full set and they keep them till six years so it's a little hard to tell whether a ewe is four, five or six. So it's probably best to buy something short of four years.

Ewes can be of native or range breeding but they should be big and open faced.

Health should be tops and you can best tell this by appearance and activity of the ewes. Check for soundness. Avoid any ewe that has a string-like growth in the test canal.

authorized by the public service commission to discontinue its full agency station at McFall, Mo. in Gentry county and make the agency into a pre-paid station.

The railroad said it was losing $7,500 a year on the full agency operation. There was no opposition to the railroad's proposal before the PSC.

Attorney General John M. Dalton has ruled that members of a county highway commission can be removed from office for failure to make an annual report to the county court.

Dalton's ruling, made for Rep. Ealum Bruffett, (R-Ozark county), said there were two methods for removal of county highway commissioners from office. One method is described in the statutes, the other is quo warranto proceedings. Each requires the filing of an information against the officers charged with wrongfully holding office or not performing their duties.

Bruffett's letter to the attorney general said the Ozark county highway commission had failed to make the annual report to the county court as required by law.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D.D.

People affect each other in all sorts of ways. Some folks just make us feel good with their appreciation and encouragement. It is not always the nice things they say that gives us a lift. It is the smile they wear or the sympathy in their eyes, or the even tone of their voices. Some people give us appreciation through their notice of little things. They tell us about the pleasure we have given them.

Sincerity is written all over the faces of some, while suspicion and dislike seem to characterize others. We steer clear of the grumbling and complaining type of person. They never see anything good in other people. They pick out the smallest flaws and build up these little things until one would expect that the subjects of criticism were grotesque and ugly beings.

We are very much aware of the way in which other people affect us, but we do not give much thought to the way we affect others. Do our friends really enjoy being in our presence? We may discourage others by our little words of sarcasm or our lack of recognition. The way we look, the thoughts we think, and the tone of our voices affect others.

It is necessary that we know how we affect other people, but above all we must care about this effect. Unless we are concerned we cannot contribute much toward helping people along their daily walks of life.

God knows all the effects which people create, and He cares about individual people. In fact He commands us to "love one another" and that presupposes that we care.

Ike Was Satisfied With 84th Congress

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — In his last meeting with GOP leaders just before Congress adjourned, the President said he was "satisfied" with the legislative record of the 84th Congress, though not exactly jubilant about the box score of accomplishment.

The box score had been prepared on charts by some of Ike's Madison Avenue advisers, and GOP leaders, looking over Ike's shoulder, could see in separate columns the major bills that had: 1) passed the House, 2) passed the Senate, and 3) received the President's signature.

Scanning these charts, Eisenhower told the leaders:

"I want to thank each of you for all you did to get our program through the Congress. It was a tough job, and I appreciate your efforts. Of course, I didn't get everything I hoped for. But on the whole I am satisfied with the record."

"We're in pretty good shape," he added, apparently meaning that the Republican party could confidently face the coming campaign. However, he expressed disappointment over the Senate's restriction of foreign aid funds, also the scuttling of the civil rights bill.

There were laughs as he referred to the foreign aid battle in which Senate GOP leader William Knowland helped defeat the President's urgent request for aid to Yugoslavia. Knowland himself managed to muster a grin when Ike, looking squarely at him, declared:

"No, I can't say that I am satisfied with the Senate action."

He expressed hope that a compromise could be worked out by Senate and House joint conferees to remove the Senate hurdle on any new military aid to Yugoslavia.

Knowland reported that the "practical difficulties of the threatened filibuster" dashed any hope of Senate action on the civil rights bill, already approved by the House.

"With the kind of organized southern opposition we face, there just isn't time to get the bill through the Senate," said Knowland. "Maybe if we had taken it up earlier we would have had a chance, but there was no opportunity with other pressing measures."

"Well, I certainly hope something can be done in the next Congress," the President remarked. "We cannot abandon the responsibility of protecting the rights of minorities. It is not an extreme bill. In fact, it is a very moderate one in my opinion. I can't understand all the fuss about it."

Newman's Summary

Summarizing the work of Congress from a newsmen's sideline, I would say that the 84th Congress was more than usually representative of the people. When the people raise Cain with Congress, the Congress listens. When the people are apathetic, Congress listens to the lobbyists.

This Congress more than most I have watched listened to the lobbyists. Some lobbyists are bad, some are good. But if you look over the record of the 84th Congress you see few bills passed without the urging of lobbyists. Here is the scorecard:

The Highway Bill—costing $37,000,000,000 was put across by the truckers, the auto and tire companies, the gasoline companies and the teamsters union. It's a good bill, but it wouldn't have passed, at least at this session, without lobbyist support.

The School Construction Bill—Far more important than highways, the school bill had no lobbies behind it. The teachers are not effective. School children don't know how to lobby. The White House didn't lift its voice audibly while the school debate was on. The bill did not pass.

Hells Canyon—A big federal dam on the last big damsite remaining in the U.S.A. was blocked by private utility lobbies and powerful White House lobbyists who camped out on Capitol Hill and buttonholed wavering senators. If the White House had exerted half as much effort for the school bill as it did blocking Hells Canyon, school children would have the promise of new buildings as they start to school in September.

The Farm Bill—was passed, after much hassling, because of the farm lobbyists, among the most potent in the nation.

Old Age Pensions — The pension age for women was lowered and disability payments broadened over the protest of the administration. This came about as a result of pressure from labor and older groups.

Minimum Wages — were increased from 75 cents to one dollar at the insistence of liberal Democrats and labor unions. The administration wanted only 90 cents. Unions had little to gain from pushing the bill because most of their members get higher wages. But they wanted to lift the general buying power of the nation.

The Clean Elections Bill—had no lobbyists behind it. Phil Graham, publisher of the Washington Post, and Senator Hennings of Missouri pushed it relentlessly, but any Senate leaders who are in a position to get big money from big business or big oil are loath to clean up campaign contributions. The Republicans and Sen. Lyndon Johnson, Texas Democrat, both benefit.

Investigation of Lobbying—Obviously there were no lobbyists standing in line to push an investigation of themselves. So this investigation has been scraping slowly through the Washington summer without even revealing its most sensational information—a $5,000 check from Howard Keck of Superior Oil to the Eisenhower dinner right in the middle of the Senate gas debate. Superior Oil has now been indicted, but in connection with the $2,500 which Senator Case rejected, not the $5,000 which the Ike committee kept.

Note—Only important measure which passed without lobbyist support was the foreign aid bill, and it had the most effective voice in the nation—that of the White House—behind it.

Lee's Summit Golfer Shoots 103 To Cop 27-Hole Tournament Here

The annual Elm Hills Country View Club golf tournament was won by V. M. McQuinn of Lees Summit, Sunday with a sharp four-under-par 32 on his second nine not only took the championship but was medalist for the day with a sharp four-under-par 32 on his second nine holes of the 27-hole play.

McQuinn, a disabled veteran of World War II, accompanied a friend to Sedalia to the tournament when he was urged by several other golfers to register and play. Seriously wounded in the war when his legs were shot up by the enemy, he entered just for the fun and his first nine holes used for qualification placed him in the championship flight. His score was a 37.

When he started out George Thomasetti assigned Jimmy Rice, son of Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Rice, as his caddy. Rice, who has been taking instructions, was told he could learn much by making the rounds with some of the tournament players and watching them. Little did Jimmy know, or anyone else in fact and mostly McQuinn, that the player would emerge with the top honors of the day.

At the end of the second nine when Jimmy went to the clubhouse, he remarked, "George sure picked a good one for me to learn from."

In spite of his limp, McQuinn's nine-hole scores were 37-32-34 for a total 103.

Wally Morris of California was the winner of the "A" flight with a 36-38-38, a total of 112, for the 27 holes.

The "B" flight was won by Clayton Craig, 1210 South Osage, who had a 40-38-35-113. He played on Smith-Cotton High School team which won the Central Missouri Championship. The "C" flight was won by Bob Biser, Kansas City, with a score of 44-39-38—total stroke score of 121. Biser accompanied the champion, McQuinn, to Sedalia.

Curt Veach of Tipton sewed up "D" flight, shooting a 45-41-42, total of 128.

There were 70 entries in the tournament. In the championship flight there were ten players; "A" flight, 11; "B" flight, 19; "C" flight, 16; and "D" flight, 14.

An exceptionally large gallery was on hand for this tournament, much larger than in past years. More interest was displayed in the 1956 play than any previous season for both players and spectators.

Other winners were presented various merchandise awards as prizes from Sedalia merchants.

At the end of the second nine when Jimmy went to the clubhouse, he remarked, "George sure picked a good one for me to learn from."

In spite of his limp, McQuinn's nine-hole scores were 37-32-34 for a total 103.

Bee Jays Increase Lead With Victory

Scoring their ninth win in second half Ban Johnson competition, the Sedalia Bee Jays' downed the Boonville Cadillacs 5 to 1 at Harley Park in Boonville Sunday night.

The Bee Jays were the first to score with three crossing home in the first inning. On a hit by Mines, Case scored and Fall went to third with Mines taking second on a throw to third base. Newman reached first and Fall scored the second run on an error by the shortstop.

Newman broke for second and Mines raced for home for a perfect execution of the double steal and to give the Bee Jays a three-run lead that they held all the way.

In the top half of the third, Higgins hit a grounder to Shortstop with two on base. Fall scored on a throw to home.

Boonville's first serious threat came in the bottom of the fourth when with two out Darrel Meyer tripled to deep right field but Brummell struck out to end the inning.

Higgins walked in the sixth and Newman lined a single to right. The third baseman missed the throw and Higgins raced home to make the lead 5 to 0.

The Cadillacs scored their first and only run in the bottom half of the sixth when Bob Bechtold hit to left field. The ball hopped past the left fielder and Bechtold scored.

Boonville threatened again in the eighth and ninth but the Bee Jays held them scoreless the rest of the game. Kubli went the distance for Sedalia, chalking up his sixth win of the season against two defeats. Bunny Brummell was charged with the loss.

The Bee Jays will meet the Jefferson City Bears under the lights at Liberty Park at 8 p.m. Thursday. Elroy Burton is the probable pitcher. Earlier in the second half the Bee Jays defeated the Bears 7 to 8.

The box score is:

Kathy Cornelius Helps Pay For Groceries With Tourney Money

DULUTH, Minn. (U)—Mrs. Kathy Cornelius, a sedate young brunette with a deadpan golfing manner, was ready to put her newly won Women's National Open cash to work today—helping to pay for the family groceries.

The 23-year-old Lake Worth, Fla., mother, appearing on the full professional tour this year for the first time, overpowered amateur Barbara McIntire of Toledo, Ohio, by seven strokes in an 18-hole title playoff at scenic Northland course yesterday.

Mrs. Cornelius fired a 1-over-par 75 while Miss McIntire, a 21-year-old college coed, took an 82. A day earlier, Miss McIntire came home with a final-round 3-under 71 to force the playoff.

Mrs. Cornelius clinched the $1,500 top prize money Saturday by beating the professional field.

"There are lots of things we can do with it," she said. "It always comes in handy around the place."

Kathy is the wife of Bill Cornelius, a club pro at Lake Worth, and the mother of a 2-year-old daughter, Karen.

Blind Golfer Wins Eighth Tournament

CHICAGO (U)—Charles Boswell, record breaking golfer from Birmingham, Ala., won his eighth blind golfers tournament yesterday with a 187 total for 36 holes.

Boswell, former Alabama half-back, lost his sight in the battle of the Bulge during World War II.

Each golfer in the tournament had a "seeing eye" coach who lined up shots and estimated distance.

Alvin Dark Helps Cards Over Giants

Alvin Dark's hot .469 hitting against his former New York Giant teammates has helped mightily in the St. Louis Cardinals' 6-for-8 record over the Giants since their big June 14 trade.

The veteran shortstop wore out three pitchers with four hits, one a double, as the Redbirds won a 10-inning battle, 3-2, and the rubber game of the three-game set yesterday at New York.

Stan Musial's single scored Don Blasingame with the winning run, breaking The Man's hitless string at 13 times at bat. Blasingame and Dark had singled to give Musial his chance.

At Kansas City, Bill Skowron smashed two homers and Hank Bauer one, pacing the New York Yankees to a 5-3 victory and a sweep of their three-game series with the Athletics.

The A's grabbed a 2-0 lead on a two-run homer by Lou Skizas in the first, but Bob Turley stuck it out to get his fifth victory against two losses. He needed some help from Rip Coleman in the ninth.

Skowron, on a one-man spree against the A's in the series, slammed a solo homer in the fourth and climaxed a three-run first with a two-run blast. Art Ditmar went to route for Kansas City and took his 12th defeat. He's won eight.

Tom Poholsky of the Cardinals picked up a deserved victory, his first since his 6-0 shutout over the Giants at New York June 27. He now stands 6-8 for the year.

The Redbirds have won four of their first six on a 22-game road trip, opening a three-game lead over Pittsburgh in their fourth-place battle.

Willie Mays and Bobby Del Greco had exchanged home runs for a 1-1 tie when the Cards went ahead on Dark's double and Ken Boyer's single in the sixth. But in the seventh, Boyer let a routine grounder go through his legs for an error that let Mays score from second with the tying run.

Dark has batted in seven runs, scored six, and bashed 15 hits in eight games against his former teammates. Whitey Lockman has a .308 mark in partime action against New York and Ray Katt has yet to play against them.

The three ex-Cardinals aren't doing as well against the Redbirds. Red Schoendienst missed the first two games and is batting .348 but Cardinals pitchers have held Bill Sarni to .238 and Jackie Brandt to .190.

Youthful Golfers Lead Young March

BALTIMORE (U)—Golf's youth movement, with Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., at the head of the parade, marched on Chicago to parade with eyes glittering at the prospect of the pot of gold in the Tam O'Shanter.

Palmer and seven of the other first nine finishers in the Eastern Open which ended yesterday are under 30 years old—illustrating the quantity as well as quality of the younger set.

Palmer won the Eastern Open with 277 strokes for 72 holes, 11 better than par for Mount Pleasant's 6,895-yard course. He won by two strokes over Dow Finsterwald of Bedford Heights, Ohio.

Both Palmer and Finsterwald are 26 years old.

Their one-two finish in the Eastern Open was no fluke while leaving in the wake such veteran campaigners as Doug Ford, Dave Douglas, Jim Turska, Marty Furgol, Jack Fleck, Henry Ransom, Bob Toski and Ansel Snow.

Finsterwald's $2,150 second prize restored him as the leading pro money winner over Cary Middlecoff, with a total of $23,821. The $3,800 first prize moved Palmer up to 13th place with $12,709.

Despite 'Cracking' Hints—Redlegs Get Chance to Close In on NL Pennant Race Now

By JACK HAND
The Associated Press

Now comes Cincinnati's chance to close ground in the National League race while Milwaukee and Brooklyn slash away at close range in a four-game cutover series.

The Redlegs edged within 2½ games of the pace yesterday by polishing off the fading Pittsburgh Pirates in a doubleheader. Milwaukee continued to find trouble in Philadelphia and Brooklyn had to settle for a split with Chicago, breaking the Dodgers' eight-game winning streak.

After Cincinnati dropped three straight to Brooklyn, there were hints that the Redlegs were cracking. Instead they swept four from the Pirates and moved back into contention.

Cincinnati plays in Pittsburgh again tonight and then takes on the last-place New York Giants in four games while the Braves and Dodgers wrestle.

Brooks Lawrence threw a four-hitter at Pittsburgh for Cincy's 6-1 opening victory and Smokey Burgess came through with a ninth-inning double that broke a tie for a 3-2 edge in the second.

Curt Simmons took charge of the Braves 5-2 with Roy Smalley's two-run triple breaking open a tie game in the eighth inning.

Win Wee Reese ran the Dodgers' winning streak to eight with an eighth-inning homer for Don Newcombe's 100th big league win 1-0, but the Cubs bounced back with a 4-2 decision as Bob Rush won his 100th game.

The Dodgers are now four games behind Milwaukee and ½ behind Cincinnati.

St. Louis sank the Giants deeper into the cellar with a 3-2 triumph in 10 innings on Stan Musial's single after singles by Don Blasingame and Al Dark. Among the 10 Cardinal hits were three singles and a double by Dark, ex-Giant shortstop.

Casey Stengel celebrated another birthday party at Kansas City with a 5-3 New York Yankee victory over the last-place A's. Bill Skowron hit two homers.

Bob Turley almost went the route in his first start since July 6 but Rip Coleman came in to get the final out when the Athletics got two men on with two out in the ninth. Hank Bauer homered for the Yanks and Lou Skizas for the A's.

Cleveland picked up half a game on the Yanks and now trails by nine after shutting out Baltimore 3-0 and 4-0. Herb Score allowed four hits in the first and Hank Aguirre, recently recalled from Indianapolis, gave seven hits in the second.

Larry Doby had himself a day in Chicago's double romp over Boston 11-2 and 6-3. The White Sox centerfielder drove in eight runs with a pair of homers and a two-run double. Walt Dropo matched Doby's five RBIs in the opener, backing up Billy Pierce's pitching.

Detroit and Washington split a pair on two fine pitching efforts. After Billy Hoelt struck out 12 and gave only six hits in the 6-0 first game, Washington's Dean Stone held the Tigers to four hits for a 4-1 decision. Stone was only one out away from Washington's first shutout win in 114 games (98 this year) when Bob Kennedy crashed a homer in the ninth.

An oddity of Cincinnati's double was the only extra-base hit by this fence-busting crew. Buster Freeman was the winner in relief of Don Gross as the Reds staged another ninth-inning upset in the second game.

Milwaukee overcame a 2-0 deficit to tie the score in the fifth on Andy Pafko's 200th major league homer, only to see the Phils chase Warren Spahn in the eighth. Smalley's triple drove in two and he also came home on Richie Ashburn's single.

Omaha Shaves Denver Lead 4-3 Sunday

Stan Jok laced a two-run single with two out in the ninth to boost Omaha to a 4-3 victory over Denver Sunday night that shaved the Bears American Assn. lead to five games.

Second-place Indianapolis gained a half-game on Denver by splitting with Wichita. The Indians won the opener 5-3 and dropped the second game, 9-5. Louisville and St. Paul divided their double-header with the Saints taking the opener, 9-1, and the Colonels the nightcap, 2-1. Minneapolis at Charleston was postponed because of wet grounds.

Denver's league leaders built a 3-0 lead in the first five innings and held a 3-2 margin going into the last of the ninth. After loading the sacks with two out, Denver starter Mark Freeman got a 3-1 count on Jok before the Omaha slugger belted the next pitch to the outfield scoring Al Baro, who singled, and Dick Schofield, who walked.

Carlos Paula smacked a home run with a mate aboard to hand Louisville a 2-1 protested victory over St. Paul in the second game at Louisville. St. Paul Manager Max Macon protested after Umpire Bill Kinnaman reversed a ruling calling St. Paul's Lacy Curry safe on a high throw to first base.

Homers drove in all the runs in Indianapolis' 5-3 triumph at Wichita. The Indians went ahead 3-0 on round trippers by Billy Harrel and Roger Maris. Wichita pulled even in the third when Bob Talbot and Earl Hersh sandwiched homers around a walk. Russ Nixon's pinchhit homer with a mate on in the ninth decided the game.

Wichita rode to victory in the second contest on a six-run seventh, capped by Harry Hanebrink's two-run homer.

The A's scored their first run in the second inning when Russell reached second on an error by the shortstop and centerfielder, then scored on Bud Thomas single. The locals tallied two more in the 8th on Dey's walk, who advanced to second on a wild pitch. Fall singled and both scored on Bud Thomas' double.

The winning run came in the 9th on Imhauser's walk. Morgan's sacrifice, Dey's walk. Falls fled out, Schumaker walked. Then Russell walked, forcing in the winning run. Bud Thomas got two hits out of three times at bat while Foell had two for four.

Tuesday night the A's play the Kansas City Giants at Liberty Park and the game time will be 8:15.

Will Complete Two Per Day— Housing at Whiteman AFB Progresses With 25 Started

By either entering or leaving Whiteman Air Force Base via the West gate, one can get a good look at the rapidly developed $6,035,994 on-base housing project which is making great strides towards completion at this Eighth Air Force installation.

Although hampered considerably by frequent rainfall, the housing development is definitely progressing at a substantial pace. To date, 25 houses have been framed, including erection of windows. Roofs are to be applied sometime this week. While the actual construction of the buildings has been taking place, sewer, gas and water lines have been installed. A spokesman for the J. W. Bateson Co. Inc., of Dallas, Tex., which has been contracted to build the development, said that exterior masonry is expected to get underway in the very near future in addition to interior sheet rock work followed by painting.

When the first building is finished, buildings will then be completed at the rate of two per day. A small group of the houses are expected to be completed and ready for occupancy by Jan. 1. The 215 buildings planned for the project include 186 duplexes and 30 single family units.

These units are in direct contrast to the typical on-base housing developments throughout the service which offer virtually no variation in the exterior and interior appearance of the houses.

Evidence of the variety of homes being constructed on the base are the many variations of four basic building plans. The airman quarters have 17 variations on four standard floorplans.

To give even more variety to the entire scheme, the alternating of masonry and siding will result in no two houses looking alike.

To further illustrate the many variations being made on a basic style is the fact that the entire housing project will have the appearance of an attractive suburban development, featuring 215 "different" homes used but eight different types of stone and eight variations of siding in construction.

The site of the project, covering approximately 160 acres, is located along the west and northwest edges of the base adjoining Knob Noster State Park.

Each unit will have a car port in which will be located an enclosed storage area. All driveways will be paved and all homes will have ceramic tile bathrooms and garbage disposal units.

Stationed in Germany—

Versailles Family Writes About Tour Through Europe

Vernon and Ruth Whittle, formerly of Versailles, who are now stationed at Ludwigsburg, Germany, until 1958, wrote a letter home telling of a tour through parts of Europe.

The couple and their daughters left Ludwigsburg June 16, going south to Munich, Garmisch and on to Innsbruck, Austria, over Brenner Pass into Italy.

The first night stop was in Trenton, near Verona, Italy. From Verona they went to Venice, the City of Canals, but Mr. Whittle said, "It didn't impress me as being a clean, forward-moving city; in fact, just the opposite. But it was worth the time and money spent anyhow."

From Venice they went south to Bologna and on to Florence with its many statues, interesting sights and monuments.

In Pisa, where they found the tower "still leaning, and quite decidedly so. We . . . started to the tip-top . . . and as you go up it gives a great sensation . . . of falling up steps." From Pisa they went to Camp Darby for a short stay at the Officer's Club there with "facilities of any army post state."

In Rome they found "St. Peter's Basilica as impressive as a big structure could be . . . The Pope came out at noon and we were present . . . down National Avenue . . . magnificent on the approach were the ruins of the Coliseum . . . beyond one's imagination." Venturing to drive around Rome, they found it a mistake with the bicycle traffic heavy.

Going back to Camp Darby, they rested and went north to Milan, LaSpezia, Parma, and others, with "roads that can only be found in Italy."

On to Switzerland they were lost three times before finding the route, and then drove over most of the high mountains, over St. Gotthard's pass, and found some of the roads were still blocked by snowdrifts. The little girls were thrilled by the rides over the mountains and switchbacks more than by anything else.

They found Zurich "a city much like anything that one will find in the States." They also found most shop personnel spoke English. They spent the night there before starting back to Germany.

"It was a grand tour for us . . . seeing the things and places . . . only read about in history books . . . never dreamed that some day we would see them."

USSR Agrees to Send Entertainers to US In Culture Exchange

MOSCOW (AP)—American showman Billy Rose says the Soviet Union has agreed in principle to send 500 Russian entertainers to the United States and let 500 American entertainers come here next year.

Rose said a draft agreement was initiated for the Russians by Georgi Orvid, deputy minister of culture.

It envisions exchange tours of four Russian and four American troupes during 1957, after New Year's Eve premiere performances in New York and Moscow, Rose reported.

The diminutive theatrical producer came to Moscow to investigate the possibility of such an exchange in the hope, he said, that a swap of music and laughter "might relieve a certain amount of tension."

There would be appearances in six cities of about the same population in each country, and appearances on the U.S. commercial and Russian state radio and television networks, Rose said. He said the State Department had expressed approval in principle.

Red Cross Holds Drive for Blood At Whiteman AFB

Red Cross officials at Whiteman Air Force Base said this week that the blood drive conducted at the base gymnasium July 10 and 11 netted a total of 188 pints.

Field Maintenance Squadron personnel contributed more blood than the next three units put together. Sixty-five men from this squadron answered the call for blood.

A&E Squadron followed with 21 volunteers, Operations Squadron with 18 and 18 Food Service personnel donated blood to this worthwhile cause.

Air Police Squadron had 16 men donate, Supply and Hq. Sq. ABC each had 11 personnel contribute blood. Installations followed with 10 men. Periodic Maintenance had six. Motor Vehicle was next with four contributors, two civilian personnel donated, and one man from ARS. Hq. Sq. Wing, 487th Bomb Squadron, Mobile Training Detachment and Tac Hospital Squadron. Two others donated blood but were unidentified.

As a result of this project the base hospital is insured of having adequate supplies of whole fresh blood available at all times. Also, by participating in the blood program the base makes it possible to supply whole blood needs to all base personnel and their families any place they might be hospitalized where blood from the Red Cross is acceptable.

Ex-Sedalian Graduate From Florida School

Seaman 1c James Mays Ellis and wife, Betty, both former Smith-Cotton students, graduated from the School of Mary Immaculate of Key West, Fla., July 5.

James, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Ellis, route 2, is stationed at the Naval Base at Key West, assigned to the USS Howard W. Gilmore, a submarine tender.

Betty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Litz, route 2, is a civil service employee, and is a clerk typist at the Naval Administration Building. Her office manager lived in Sedalia as a child.

Ellis, who had received his high school diploma through the Navy in 1955, chose special subjects in school which would aid in college. While at Smith-Cotton he was a member of the track team, and now runs on the Navy team.

The couple attended night classes for high and college students.

Tanglenook 4-H Club Has Reports, Talks

The Tanglenook 4-H Club met at Tanglenook school July 9. Luther Jordan called the meeting to order and led in repeating the 4-H pledge.

Ten members answered roll call with what they planned to exhibit at Achievement Day.

A committee of four reported there would be a picnic the following Sunday at Liberty Park.

Several project reports were given and Delta Reine gave a talk on giving demonstrations. After the meeting adjourned refreshments were served.

The next meeting will be Aug. 13.
